Exchange & Broker's Office,
Georgetown, District of Columbia.
ROMULUS RIGGS.
AT his office, next door below Craw-ford's tavern, Bridge-st. Georgetown, will exchange all kinds of Bank Notes of the most reasonable terms.—All persons who may have notes on the banks of North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia, would do well to call on him, as he is largely in the purchase of that kind of money, and will take it on the most reasonable terms.—Persons travelling to the Western Country may at all times get the Bank Notes of the Western Banks at a fair discount, by calling at his Office. For the information of all persons throughout the U.
States, R. Riggs makes it known, that all of the Banks of the District of Columbia pay their notes on demand in specie; and it would be much to the advantage of the merchants, and trading to the South and west, to encourage the circulation of the Notes of the Banks of Georgetown, Washington and Alexandria, as it will at all times answer for remittances to the large commercial and Atlantic towns.—all persons emigrating or travelling to the westward should be very particular and take the Notes of the Banks of the District of Columbia, as they will find them the most current, there being no counterfeits on the District Banks. The Merchants' Bank of Alexandria has long since failed—all persons should be on their guard, as they will be imposed on. August 18

RAN away from the subscriber about

LOUIZA—she is 25 years old, about 5 feet

a mother living in Georgetown, one above
Semmes's tavern, and the other on Herring Hill, where she has been harbored for two weeks, and left there to come home, but has not done so. I expect she can be found has many acquaintances. I will give the above reward if brought home, or lodged in jail so that I get her again.

ABSCONDED from the subscriber's service, on Saturday night the 15th inst. Negro woman TREACE or TREACY
—she is five feet two or three inches high, about 30 years of age, of a very dark complexion, and when particularly examined is very apt to confound herself.—It is deemed unnecessary to mention her clothing, as she has all of them with her, and being extremely artful, she no doubt will change them and endeavor to pass for a free woman. She is well acquainted in Charles county, Prince George's, Alexandria and the City, as about 5 years ago she made her escape, and was 6 or 7 months about the Lower Ferry, leading to Alexandria, and from thence to Washington City, where she acquired an extensive acquaintance among the Negroes belonging to John Brent, esq.; and the greater part of said Negroes belong now to William and Robert Brent, esqrs. and Mr. Dudley Diggs.
Negro Treace has a scar on the back part of her neck, occasioned by a scorpion put for the benefit of her eyes, which are very weak at this time. I will give 10 dollars if taken in the county and secured as aforesaid, so that I get her again, 25 dollars, and all reasonable charges paid if brought home. All persons are forewarned ha-

ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE AND DAILY ADVERTISER.
PUBLISHED BY SAMUEL SNOWDEN,
ROYAL-STREET.
Daily Gazette, 7 dols. Country, 5 dols.
TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1818.

The editor of the Gazette is requested to republish the note from Allan Ramsay, respecting the 1st canto of 'Christ's Kirk on the Green,' written by James I. of Scotland.

This will close the discussion, and will prove that although your late correspondents were "duo in unum," James I. and James VI. were very distinct and very different persons.

It may further have the good effect of curing the young gentleman of a most malignant species of the itch, denominated caecoths scribendi—Anglice—itch for scribbling, which seems a disease deep-seated than cutaneous. And another good symptom may follow; a conviction of the truth of the following quotation:

"A little learning is a dangerous thing—
"Drink deep or taste not of the Pierian spring."

But this advice, it is to be feared, is like whistling to the rude blast that howls on the "stern and wild" mountains of CALEDONIA.

"This edition of the first canto is taken from an old manuscript collection of Scots poems written above 200 years ago, where it is found that James, the first of that name, king of Scots, was the author; thought to be wrote while that brave and learned prince was unfortunately kept prisoner in England by Henry VI. about the year 1412. Balleaden, in his translation of H. Boece's history, gives this character of him: 'He was well learnt to feth with the sword, to iust, to turnay, to worsly, to eyng and dance, was an expert medicinar, rich crafty in playing bath of lute and harp, and sindy uthir instrumentis of masick.' He was expert in grammar, oratory and poetry, and made sad flow and and sententious versis, appert well he was ane natural and born poet."—Liber 16, cap. 16.

For the Gazette.

OLIVER CROMWELL AND NAPOLEON.
During a revolution of which he was not the author, Oliver Cromwell raised himself to be generalissimo of the parliamentary forces, by his military talents and personal bravery. With only twelve horsemen to assist him, he cut his way through the royal camp before Hull in Yorkshire, and did not lose a man, although exposed to the incessant fire of his enemies. In the first engagement at which he was present, he was wounded in his foot and in his shoulder, and had his horse shot under him: he then mounted another, and then rushing with fifteen horsemen into the enemy's ranks, created a dreadful carnage. At the battle of Marstonmoor he took two standards and an ensign, and received another wound. At the battle of Edgehill he was always in the thickest of the fight. At the battle of York he was carried off the field again wounded; but no sooner did he learn that his party were put to flight, than, regardless of his wounds, he flung himself on a horse, and meeting the retreating general, cried out to him, "Not here, my lord Manchester, but there, is the enemy to be found!" Again the beaten turned upon their adversaries, and gained the victory. Oliver was frequently surrounded by the king's forces at the battle of Needes, and each time saved himself by his personal valor alone; five horses were killed under him, and with his own arm he slew twelve officers. Three times he stormed the town of Drogheda, in Ireland, ineffectually; and at last snatching a standard out of an ensign's hand, amidst a shower of musquetry, he planted it himself before the walls of the town.

How far the parallel holds between Oliver and Napoleon so far, it cannot be difficult to perceive.

Cromwell exhibited, whenever it served his purpose, (and, the nation being at the time involved in a cloud of puritanic fanaticism, that was continually the most consummate religious hypocrisy. He pretended to be inflamed with zeal for religion while he was in one unabating perpetration of crime and blood-guiltiness—and while he urged on his soldiers to cut their fellow citizens' throats, most gravely and piously recommended to them a diligent perusal of the holy scriptures, and constantly preached from the pulpit, with his sword, clamy with carnage, by his side. In the midst of his barbarities, he never failed to go to church on Sundays, and there to place himself in a situation where he might be seen by every one, and have his devotion admired. It did not suit the purposes of his policy to make any temporary transfer of his religious allegiance from the church of Christ to the mosque of Mahomet, or, it can scarcely be doubted, he would have done so with a grumace still more captivating in the eyes of a Mohammedan mob than that played off by Bonaparte in Egypt. The display of a tolerant spirit however, being best adapted to his political views, he bent the stubborn neck of his zeal to the suggestions of his convenience, and tolerated every sect, by which he made the leaders of them all his friends—"Go! (says Falstaff) there is sympathy for you."

No demagogue that ever lived was more greedy of rule, or more ambitious of glory, than Bonaparte. The difference between them consists in this—Oliver having his passions more under control than the other, having, too, more cunning and experience, was better able to dissemble—and was, indeed, more disposed to concealment. Bonaparte, after he had attained a certain elevation, disclosed his main purpose with contumacious arrogance; while Oliver did all he could to make it appear that he did not govern by force, but that he was the humble instrument, in the hands of God, of his country's salvation. It is not improbable that the judgment of both was equally correct; that Cromwell knowing he had Englishmen to deal with, and Bonaparte that he had French, pitched each his tone to the ears he had to delude; that Cromwell, had he been an usurper in France, would have acted as openly and impudent as Bonaparte; and that the latter, had he been fated to play the demagogue in England, would have acted with as much cunning and caution as Cromwell.

Be that as it may, the parliament, actually chosen by Cromwell, and obedient to his commands, pretended to reward his services in the name of the people, and assigned to him all the revenues of his murdered sovereign—all the royal possessions and chattels, not even excepting those of the queen, the bishops and the clergy, and the confiscated estates of the king's friends. Notwithstanding which, the nation was oppressed by grievous taxes.

Once possessed of the sceptre, though he dared not to take the crown, he assumed far more than any king before him ever had, and arrogated to himself the dominion of the seas, although he was obliged to displace the earl of Warwick, one of his warmest friends. By the intrigues and popular influence of that nobleman, the crown was offered to him—somewhat, I suppose, in the same farcical chateury as that performed by Buckingham and the lord mayor of London, in Shakespeare's Richard the third—but Oliver had the sagacity and self-denial to refuse it, reprising himself with the reflection that under the title of protector he could exercise a greater share of dominion, with less suspicion, and less odium or danger. He, however, touched as nearly as he prudently could upon that point of elevation; for, in imitation of the kings, he was invested with the dignity of protector in Westminster cathedral—and he assumed the royal insignia of the globe, the sword, and the toga and cap of empire. Bonaparte's creatures trusted that they knew whom they had to deal with when they opened subscription books for his elevation to the sovereign power. They did open them, and they were not disappointed.

FALSE IMPRISONMENT.
We hear, says the Washington City Gazette, that John Anderson, of Congressional memory, has ordered a suit against Thomas Dunn, sergeant at arms of the House of Representatives, for having unjustly held him in confinement during the last session of Congress, in obedience to an order of the House. The county court, before which the cause will be brought, meets in December next.

The editor is indebted to a highly respected correspondent at Washington, for the subsequent interesting information:

"Washington, Oct. 29, 1818.
"The vacancy in the navy department is the subject of conversation in almost every circle here; but, what I believe engages most of the cabinet's attention, is a correspondence with the Spanish minister, which appears to have been resumed shortly after the arrival of the late messenger from Spain. The powers and preliminaries which he brought to Mr. Onis, enable him to offer the Floridas to our government on such terms as are satisfactory. There yet remains a difficulty respecting the western boundary, on which subject I fear every party is too tenacious of its first opinion."
[Baltimore Federal Gazette.]

The Georgia Journal states, that the sales of public lands in the Alabama Territory had opened in Milledgeville, at which a number of purchasers at a distance had attended. But three townships had been sold at the last date—Much competition in bidding; fractions 14 and 15 went off (the highest price,) at 49 dollars per acre—fractions 23 and 24 at 46.

This rate is apparently lower than that of the last sales; yet how much higher is it than of lands in the same district, a few years ago. We know of cases, where the land was bought at 4 or 5 dollars, held by the purchaser at 10 or 12; and is now at 40 or 50 dollars per acre. The lands to the south are considerably higher than those in the north. Those in the Alabama Territory or Mississippi State, are beyond all proportion higher priced than lands in the Illinois or the Missouri Territories. The disparity must consequently retard the population of the southern country, by turning off the tide of emigration into another channel.
[Richmond Compiler.]

Extract of a letter from a respectable house in Oporto, to their correspondent in this city, dated 16th Sept. 1818.

"We have written you by several vessels, the changes which have taken place in this market, in the price of Indian corn; and we regret to add, we cannot recommend shipments as this place is filling daily, so much so, that we shall hardly be able to find warehouses for the storing of corn; and beside the Indian corn of the country is now coming to market, and is offered at very low prices. The government have laid a duty of 3 dollars per barrel on wheat flour, and 13 dollars on rye flour. This duty appears to have been imposed to act as a prohibition to imports of this article, as it affected the millers materially."
[Philadelphia Com. Register.]

SINGULAR FACT IN SURGERY.
The following extraordinary fact is published in the "Annales Encyclopediques" for January, 1817: "At the last meeting of the medical society, M. Espagnol, made a communication of a very singular nature. A common laborer, resident of a village in the vicinity of Paris, in cutting some timber, cut the fore finger of his left hand entirely off, including two of the joints. The mother of the man repaired to the spot to seek for the finger, and having found it eighteen minutes after the accident, applied it to the remaining joint, and so complete was the junction, that in a few months the laborer had the same use of his finger as before."
New-York, Oct. 28.

DISASTER.
The brig Galen, Capt. Beebe, with a very valuable cargo of dry goods &c. from this port for N. Orleans, arrived at the Balize on the 26th September. On the 19th of the same month, in the evening, in lat. 25, 30, long. 83, 50, the Galen was discovered to be on fire in her hold, and all hands immediately set to work breaking out the cargo so as to get at and extinguish it. But this being found impracticable, the hatches were closed and every crevice stopped up, in the hope to smother the fire. The next morning the flame broke through the deck, and after great exertion was extinguished. It was found that it was caused by the bursting of some bottles of oil of vitriol, which were stowed in the bottom of the vessel. A great part of the cargo is said to be destroyed, and the vessel considerably injured.

I recollect, when a boy, hearing an itinerant black man singing—
"Paper-money is a very bad truck,
"It won't buy a poor man a sheep's head and pluck."

And the money of the present day, is becoming equally worthless. Many counterfeits are in circulation. Banks are suspending payments for the present, and some for the future. The citizens of Lancaster and Dauphin Counties, have had meetings, at which they have resolved "That the citizens of Lancaster and Harrisburg, will not receive the paper of any Bank but such as is at par in the city of Philadelphia," or will be received at the Banks in the two places mentioned.
[Pennsylvania Correspondent.]

AN AFFAIR.
The late Dr. Fowler, bishop of Gloucester, and justice Powell, had frequent alterations on the subject of Ghosts. The bishop was a zealous defender of their reality—the justice somewhat sceptical. The bishop one day met his friend, and the justice told him that since their last conference on the subject, he had an ocular demonstration which convinced him of the existence of Ghosts. "I rejoice at your conversion," replied the bishop, "give me the circumstance that produced it with all the particulars: ocular demonstration you say?" "Yes, my lord,—as I lay last night in my bed,—about the 12th hour, I was awakened by an uncommon noise, and heard something coming up stairs!" "Go on!" "Alarmed at the noise, I drew my curtain!" "Proceed!" "and saw a faint glimmering light enter my chamber!" "Of a blue color was it not?" "Of a pale blue!"—the light was followed by a tall, meagre, stern, figure, who appeared as an old man of seventy years of age, arrayed in a long light colored red gown, bound round with a leather girdle; his beard thick and grisly, his hair scant and straight, his face of a dark sable hue,—on his head a large fur cap,—and in his hand a long staff. Terror seized my whole frame,—I trembled till the bed almost shook, and cold drops hung on every limb—the figure with a slow and solemn step stalked nearer and nearer.—"Did you not speak to it? there was money hid, or murder committed within doubt."—"My Lord, I did speak to it; I adjured it by all that was holy to tell me whence, and why it thus appeared?"—"And in heaven's name what was the reply?" "It was accompanied, my Lord, by three strokes of his staff upon the floor,—so loud that they made the room ring again,—when holding up his lantern, and then waving it close to my eyes, he told me he was the Watchman! and came to give me notice that my street door was wide open, and unless I arose and shut it, I might chance to be robbed before morning."

The judge had no sooner concluded than the bishop disappeared.

The Buenos Ayrean national brig Independencia, capt. Grinnalds, arrived at this port yesterday afternoon from a cruise off Cadiz; has taken five prizes, one of which of great value. On the 29th July had an action with a Spanish sloop of war, which came out for the purpose of giving battle; and after an action of 40 minutes completely silenced her, when she struck; the wind at the time blowing a gale, could not take possession, and she escaped into Cadiz with the loss, as we afterwards ascertained, of 7 killed and 14 wounded. The Independencia had two wounded, who have since recovered; she has put in here to refit and provision, and we are told has a considerable quantity of specie on board.

Valuable Land for Sale.
HAVING more land in the tract on which I reside than I can farm to advantage, I will expose to public sale, on the 1st day of NOVEMBER next, if fair, if not the next fair day, eight hundred acres, divided into lots of two hundred acres; each lot has seventy acres in wood—of the cleared land one hundred and fifty acres are in clover, and two hundred in rye and wheat. This land is situated ten miles below Alexandria, and is bounded north and east by Accotink creek, which separates the lower part of it from Jonathan Janney's mill, where the Alexandria price can be had for grain. It is as fertile as any land in the country, and is susceptible of improvement, by clover and plaster, as any I have seen. Persons wishing to view it will call on the subscriber, living at Cedar Grove, one mile below Janney's mill.
The terms will be one-third of the purchase money in hand, and the balance in two equal annual payments. The sale will take place at 12 o'clock, on the premises.

Greatest Estate for Sale.
THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Potomac creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries in each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaster acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania. I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Potomac Canal is given for grain; being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole; it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary out-house, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvas backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensils and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment. Letters must be addressed to me at Pollock Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.
September 4 GEORGE MASON.

Valuable Property for Sale.
THE subscriber is desirous of selling a handsomely situated farm, on Hunting creek, in Fairfax county Virginia, adjoining the Mount Vernon estate and the lands of general Thomson Mason, four miles from Alexandria, containing about 240 acres, 80 of which are in wood—40 to 50 in thriving meadow of clover and timothy—a part of the residue recently seeded with wheat and rye, and clover, last spring—the whole enclosed with a new post and rail fence. The improvements are, a comfortable and convenient frame dwelling house and kitchen, smoke house, poultry house, granary and stables. There is on this place a rich and productive garden, and a large body of marsh meadow, from which may be saved annually 100 tons of hay, nearly as nutritious as the best timothy or clover. With the farm would be sold a number of very valuable horses, cows and sheep; waggon, carts, and a variety of farming utensils and household and kitchen furniture; corn, oats and rye, and 40 tons hay. Also, adjoining the one above described, a farm containing 160 acres, recently enclosed, on which is a brick house, which is a trifling expense would render comfortable. The soil is excellent, and a considerable part might be easily converted into meadow—it would be sold with the other or separately. Also, a number of valuable servants, male and female. To prevent unnecessary application, he would observe, that they will only be sold to persons residing in the District or its vicinity, and out to be carried from it. To Farmers and others.
THE Subscribers, just arrived from England, respectfully inform the public that they have formed an establishment at the upper end of King street, in the town of Alexandria, where they propose to execute extensively, and in the most improved mode now used, the following Mechanical branches, viz: Mill work, of every kind, threshing machines, wheat fans, with most kinds of machinery, waggons, carts, ploughs, and every other implement used in agriculture—to which they will add the House-joiner's and Carpenter's Work. Threshing machines having become generally useful in England and Scotland, it is presumed the American farmers will find it their interest to adopt them—with the aid of two horses and three men, they will thresh fifteen bushels of wheat every hour. Their wheat fans differ from those in use here, and it is believed they are on a plan better adapted to the object. They invite the public to call and examine their work, the greatest and durability of which, combined with great punctuality in executing any orders they may be favored with, will, they hope, entitle them to encouragement and support.
Further information respecting them may be obtained by applying to Anthony Crease and James H. Hoos, Esqrs. by whom they have been employed.

Auction & Commission Store.
NATHL. P. BIXBY & CO. respectfully inform their friends and the public generally, that they have taken that large and commodious store formerly occupied by the late Mr. Thomas Robinson, nearly opposite the Union Bank, Bridge-st., where they will transact all kinds of business in the Auction and Commission line; and as they are determined to give their exclusive attention to that business alone, those gentlemen who are disposed to employ them, have the best guarantee that they will be fairly dealt by. They flatter themselves that a punctual, diligent, and correct attention, together with their general knowledge of business, will secure to them at least an equal share of public patronage. Their intention is to avoid, as much as possible, retailing goods at auction. They are now prepared to receive goods of every description, to sell at public or private sale, and will attend to sales of property at any place within the town.

Gone to the Southward or Westward.
A YELLOW WOMAN, called Celia, a Detcher, in the 23d year of her age, about 5 feet 2 or 3 inches high—marks like moles on the right side of her face, which, with several letters on her left arm, were made with india ink. She is about four months gone in a state of pregnancy—followed her husband, Jim Clark, a yellow man, who was purchased from this place and taken away in company with a large number of slaves, about two weeks ago, by a man of the name of Bassett. It is supposed they have gone to the westward; Celia was born free, and had with her a notarial certificate of her freedom, and description of her person. Her mother, the subscriber, is much afflicted by her manner of going away, and desires that any humane people who may chance to meet with her, will persuade her to return, being apprehensive that when she gets into a strange country, where she will be unknown and out of the reach of her friends and those who would be likely to protect her, attempts may be made by some avaricious and unprincipled persons, to deprive her of her liberty, and sell her for a slave. Should any such attempt be made, fifty dollars reward will be paid to any person who will communicate such information as shall lead to the conviction of the offenders, and the recovery of the woman.

PROPOSALS.
By Gideon Fairman, John Binn and Charles S. Parker, TO PUBLISH A Splendid Edition of Washington's Farewell Address. To the People of the United States. THE world has seen enough of warriors and of Heroes—enough of Statesmen—of men who have guided Armies in the field, or dictated as Sages in the Cabinet, for the exclusive purpose of Ambition. History from its earliest page to the present day, has offered to our contemplation, only ONE WASHINGTON, but ONE MAN, whose dangers in war, and labors in peace, were undertaken and supported with a single eye, to the benefit of his country; whose wonderful and honorable success, was the plain result of wisdom in design, and valor in execution; whom danger never appalled, nor defeat depressed; who, persevering in the justice of his cause, wooed Victory till he won her: who corrected no reward but the well earned approbation of those whose interest he lived to promote; who renounced all public honors, when they ceased to be the necessary instruments of good to the people, whose gratitude conferred them: who superior to all Monarchs, was content to be called the American Citizen. His career of glory though life was unstained by crime; and his death was felt as a loss by every individual of that community, whose political existence was the fruit of his exertions.

THE FAREWELL ADDRESS of General Washington is the condensed result of long experienced, matured, reflection and strong anxiety for the permanent prosperity of his country. His advice concerning the great importance of maintaining indissolubly the federal Union; the danger of indulging too much in party feelings;—the necessity of supporting public credit at home;—of maintaining public faith in all our transactions with foreign nations; of encouraging foreign intercourse free from foreign attachments;—are so many lessons of prudence which we should do well to bear in constant remembrance. Why therefore should not his legacy of wisdom and affection, be so published, as to admit of being constantly before our eyes? An ornament to our apartments, while it serves as a memento to guide our public feelings, and to manifest that the author lives in our memories?
To make it such, is the aim of the proposed Edition.
The Publishers are determined that the Address shall be printed on paper of the same quality and size as the splendid edition of the Declaration of Independence now engraving, & shall in all respects be a companion worthy that great State paper.
As errors are known from various causes to find their way into the most important writings, the publishers feel it their duty, not only to satisfy themselves, but to satisfy the public, of the authenticity of the copy from which this splendid Edition of the Farewell Address shall be published.
MR. GEORGE BRIDPORT will complete the Design; of which the following is an outline:—The introductory part of the Address, in highly finished ornamental penmanship, shall form the upper part;—the other parts of the plate, shall be appropriate ornaments;—in the centre below shall be engraved, from an historical design for this publication by Mr. Sally the Surrender of the British Army at York-town, October 19, 1781.
The Address itself shall be printed with type of a peculiar and appropriate character, designed for this purpose by Mr. Fairman, and to be cut and cast by our best artists. No more of the type shall be cast than will be necessary to execute this Address; and when it shall be completed, the type and the matrices in which it was cast shall be utterly destroyed; so that no other work shall ever be executed by the same letter which shall have printed the "FAREWELL ADDRESS" of him who lived and died, first in War; first in Peace, and first in the hearts of his Countrymen.
The paper, of the first quality, 36 by 26 inches, will be made by Mr. Amies. THE ink shall be carefully prepared, and of the best materials.
The signature of General Washington from which it is proposed to execute a fac simile for this publication, is that which he affixed to the Constitution of the United States, when he signed it as President of the Convention in which it was framed; Thus associating and concentrating some of the greatest events in the life of this great man and in the history of his Country.
The ornamental writing will be designed and executed in the very best manner; the ornamental parts of the design and vignette, will be engraved by G. FAYMAN; and the Typographical part executed by John Binn. They will take especial care of the execution of their several duties in this respect, and they will call to their aid, all that liberality, zeal and industry can command from the Sciences and Arts, so as to make the "Farewell Address" no mean specimen of the state of the Fine Arts in the United States.
As much progress has already been made in designing and procuring materials for this splendid edition of Gen. Washington's "Farewell Address," it is expected it will be ready for delivery, with the Splendid Edition of the Declaration of Independence, in the month of December next. That the public may have a more perfect view of the design and style of execution, than can be given in a proposal, of this Tribute to the memory of him who was "a Conqueror for the Freedom of his Country! A Legislator for its Security! A Magistrate for its Happiness!" it is not intended to solicit any Subscriptions until the Ornamental parts of the plate shall be executed. It will then be submitted for public inspection and public patronage, at five dollars a Copy, payable on the delivery of the Engraving.
